WILL DEPORT HOP LEE'S SON

Immigration Authority Finds Hop Lee's Son in Gettysburg, after Five Years' Residence in this Country Obtained by Trick.

So Ho Dan Hon, the youngest son of Hop Lee, who conducts a laundry on Carlisle street, was arrested this morning by Officer Emmons on the charge of violating the immigration laws of the United States. At a hearing before United States Commissioner R. F. Topper at nine thirty, bail was furnished in the sum of $1,500 in order that Dan Hon may remain with his father until the necessary papers for his deportation may be secured from the authorities at Washington.

Young Hon was admitted to the United States, at the port of San Francisco, five years ago as being the minor son of a Chinese merchant in that place. Evidence was produced this morning by Charles V. Mallet, the United States Immigrant and Chinese Inspector at the port of Philadelphia, to show that Hop Lee had illegally gotten his son into this country by paying $300 to a notorious syndicate of smugglers, who operate in Hong Kong, China and San Francisco. They secured the young man's admittance on the plea that he was the son of a Chinese merchant in San Francisco. The merchant in question is a friend of Hop's and, although they have not seen each other for a number of years, arrangements were made by which this man swore that young Dan Hon was his son.

It seems that Hop Lee had filed papers with the proper authorities at Philadelphia on August 15th to be allowed to return to China the latter part of this month, it being necessary to do this in order that when he returns to this country he will not experience any difficulty in again being admitted. In answering the questions in Philadelphia which were asked him by the Inspector, Charles V. Mallet, Hop stated that while he was out of the country he would leave his laundry and tea business in Gettysburg in charge of his son Dan Hon.

The fact of his having a son in Gettysburg, of which the authorities knew nothing, led to an investigation being started and Inspector Mallet, accompanied by United States Marshall J. W. Snyder, of Harrisburg, arrived in town on Friday evening, and assisted by Officer Emmons of the Gettysburg police, made a thorough investigation of Hop's place of business and his reputation in the community.

Mr. Mallet, after securing the information necessary, left the case in charge of the other two officers who watched Hop's place all night fearing that the boy might have secured information that his case was being investigated and try to get out of the locality. However, everything was peaceful during the night and shortly after five o'clock this morning the three officers went in and placed the young man under arrest.

When Hop was questioned by Mr. Mallet he truthfully told all he knew and produced the papers which the United States authorities in San Francisco had given to his son on the oaths that he and the merchant had taken that they were son and father. Of course, this paper was only a further verification that it was the case of another Chinaman gaining admittance to the United States by illegal processes.

Young Hon will be deported just as soon as the necessary legal steps are taken and the matter is settled by the proper authorities at Washington.

Mr. Mallet spoke very highly of Hop Lee and said that he would do all possible in his jurisdiction to arrange to notify Hop just when his son will be deported so that he may accompany him, if not across the United States, at least on the voyage over.

Hop Lee came to the United States in 1871, and for the past twenty-five years has conducted his laundry and tea business in town. He has a wife and two daughters living in China, and also another son in the United States. Since his residence in the United States he has returned to his native country four times and will make his fifth trip back just as soon as the trouble is cleared up about his son, expecting to accompany him back to China if the government does not take action otherwise.

CELEBRATION FOR THE LINCOLN WAY

Towns and Cities along the Route to Have Big Demonstration on Friday, October 31. No Arrangements Made here.

With local celebrations from coast to coast all along the route of the Lincoln highway, on the night of Friday, October 31, this great transcontinental thoroughfare through Gettysburg will be dedicated. Patriotic citizens of the thirteen states traversed from New York to California, the same number bound together by the Declaration of Independence, will rejoice over this new bond, a permanent enduring memorial to the emancipator.

Programs are being arranged at scores of towns and cities on the route between New York and San Francisco. The pathway through these cities and villages where the Lincoln highway will soon be a reality, will be decorated with the stars and stripes, bunting and the official flag of the Lincoln Highway Association.

In some towns there will be parades, band concerts, motion pictures of good road building and many speeches. Orators will tell about the urgent need for the Lincoln highway, and the notable character of the man after whom it has been named. They will paint the Lincoln highway of the future, caravans of wagons, farm machinery, automobiles, the products of the farm on the way to the city and the goods of the manufacturers being carted to the farm, bicycles, motorcycles—every class of vehicle. Everyone will use this highway, open at all seasons of the year, smooth, dustless, certain; operated without toll charges and materially aiding in the prosperity of the sections traversed.

At these meetings plans to rename each section "The Lincoln Way", will be broached. Local designations are to be dropped. Markers will also be individualized the highway. It consists of a strip of red three inches wide, white fifteen inches in width and a blue strip three inches wide, with a letter L in blue on the white section. The words, "Lincoln Highway" in small type, are also on the marker.

The promoters of the big memorial highway plan are looking to Gettysburg to join in this celebration but no one here has taken in hand arrangements and it is probable that Gettysburg will allow her neighbors and other places on the route to conduct the jubilee.

$15.00 CHEQUE

Lynn Sheads Gets Prize for Finely Dressed Window.

Lynn, the son of Mr. and Mrs. John L. Sheads, of East Middle street, who was manager of the J. C. McCrory five and ten cent store in Chester at the time of the State firemen's convention several weeks ago, has received a cheque for fifteen dollars for having the finest decorated window in Chester at the time of the convention. While our firemen were unsuccessful in carrying away the prizes offered by the Chester Board of Trade yet Gettysburg, as usual, was not forgotten without receiving some notice.

Mr. Sheads is the youngest manager of any of the large McCrory stores which extend in a chain across the United States.

PAINFUL INJURY

Son of Mr. and Mrs. Abraham Stahley Hurt in Factory.

Palmer Stahley, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Abraham Stahley, of West Middle street, was painfully injured Friday afternoon about two thirty when he had the misfortune to get his right hand caught between the rollers of a machine known as a "sander" at the Reaser furniture factory. The power was turned off of the machine but not before the young man's hand was drawn in between the rollers nearly up to the wrist. He was placed on one of the factory wagons and brought up to Dr. Hartman's office at once where he had the member dressed and now is resting as comfortably as is possible considering the painful nature of the injury.

LITTLESTOWN MAN GETS ONE YEAR

Prof. John W. Lansinger, a native of Littlestown, former treasurer and general manager of the state normal school at Millersville, was sentenced by Judge Hassler at Lancaster this week to a year's imprisonment and $100 fine, following his conviction of a charge of larceny.

The conviction of Lansinger was the result of a prosecution instituted by Christian Kunzler, of Lancaster, from whom Lansinger had borrowed $5000 on a note. Shortly before the note became due Lansinger obtained Kunzler's indorsement to another note for a similar amount, with the understanding that it should liquidate the first note. Instead Lansinger discounted the second note also and appropriated the proceeds.

Lansinger was short in his accounts at the normal school, it is said, and the discovery of his peculations caused a sensation. Lansinger stood high in the Masonic fraternity, having been a deputy grand master, and he was instrumental to an extent in obtaining the Masonic Home for Elizabethtown.

The funeral was held from St. Mary's church at 9 o'clock Friday morning, requiem high mass being celebrated by Rev. L. Aug. Reudter. Interment was made on the family lot in Coneyago Chapel cemetery.

COMFORTABLE NEST

Particular Hen Chooses Comfortable Nest in House.

A hen owned by George B. Snively, one of the oldest residents of Shady Grove, near Hagerstown, has developed the trait of laying her eggs on the cushioned seat of a chair in the Snively home. This became known when some of Mr. Snively's friends called on him the other day to extend their congratulations on his seventy-seventh birthday. His guests were attracted by a noise at the door, and Mr. Snively explained that it was his hen "singing" to be admitted. He said for two years the hen has been in the habit of coming to the door, tapping against it with her bill and "singing" as a signal for the door to be opened. Upon entering Mrs. Hen goes to the cushioned chair.

LONG LOST WATCH

Find Watch Lost in Fire at Dillsburg Last June.

While workmen were carting away debris preparatory to digging out the foundation for the new Lutheran parsonage on the site of the old one destroyed by fire in June, they found the Rev. Mr. Eveler's gold watch, which was lost in the fire, he not having had time to save anything. While the works of the watch were damaged by the heat, the case shows little signs of having gone through a fire.

Million and a Half Cans of Corn are Handled.

Estimates vary on the corn crop this season, but it is generally stated that it was a fair one, and came out better than was at first expected. The Hanover company was not as busy as during some years, but they put up about 1,500,000 cans.

PROTECT COUNTY LANDS FROM FIRE

Posting Warnings over Forest Land in Adams County, Pointing out the Great Damage, Direct and Indirect, from Fires.

Forest fire posters, issued by the department of forestry, at Harrisburg, are being posted throughout the different sections of Adams county, particularly the forested regions. The poster, 14 inches by 22 inches in size, contrasts vividly the advantages of protected forests and the curses which befall as the result of forest fires.

Sometimes people see forest fires start, and do nothing to extinguish them when they are small. They do not realize that the greater the fire the greater their own individual loss. The unfortunate condition is that the great evils resulting from forest fires are not direct, according to statements given out by those interested in forest protection.

Diminished streams and impure water may not be noticed for several years. The gradual increase in the price of wood may not be attributed to the local fire. The money that might have been brought to a community because of its beauty is not missed because it was never expected. The failure of farm and fruit crops is blamed upon "the weather" or "the bugs" when unquestionably the real cause was changed forest conditions in the neighborhood. The poverty of a region is blamed upon "hard times," "the administration" and other indefinite things. Forest fires have made tree growth impossible, hence lumbering and other industries dependent upon the forest are impossible. The soil is too steep and too poor to farm and is constantly getting poorer and thinner. There is nothing to do but to move out or starve.

Fires may increase the berry crop or the pasture for a few years but the final result is far less than a crop of forest trees would yield.

The words on the posters are as follows:

Stop forest fires! They are a curse to the people of Pennsylvania.

Forest fires destroy—Existing forests, possibility of future forests, possibility of labor, beauty of a region, comfort, homes, lives, prosperity.

Protected forests increase in value. They furnish labor, promote industry, afford recreation and sport, make a region beautiful, make homes safe and comfortable, make life worth living, and a prosperous state inhabited by a contented and industrious people.

Which would you rather have: Forest fires, floods, disease, destruction, devastation, or, green forests, pure water, health, thriving industries, prosperity.

For information respecting Pennsylvania forests and tree planting, write to Commissioner of Forestry, Harrisburg, Pa.

FREE LIBRARY

Adams County Teachers May Have Free Use of State Books.

County Superintendent H. Milton Roth has been advised by J. George Becht, executive secretary of the State Board of Education, that an educational library for the use of teachers and others interested in the study of the many special problems in education has been established by the state and bulletins giving accessions of new books and pamphlets will be issued from time to time by the board.

The library is expected to be of special benefit to teachers in the public schools who are frequently called upon to prepare papers or addresses for institutes and educational and civic meetings, and have no library to which they have access. This is particularly true of rural communities. It is the purpose of the state board of education to have the best collection of books and pamphlets available.

It Sounded Like Thunder

By F. A. MITCHEL

I met Lillie Longman and was introduced to her at a barn dance. I fell head over heels in love with her at once. There was some attempt at fancy costume among the girls, and Lillie was dressed like an Indian girl, but long black hair hanging below her waist. I knew secretly any one there and stood watching a set of dancers who were doing a quadrille or some other of those old fashioned square dances. Lillie was bobbing about, feeling happy in the consciousness of looking very pretty and showing her long locks, and all the while she was firing quick shots at me with her black eyes.

After the dance I hunted for some one to introduce me to Lillie and was successful. The girl had known I was watching her in the dance, and every one of her antics was for me. I wasn't a dancing man and persuaded her to sit out a dance with me. Then a nice looking, dapper young fellow took her for another dance, and I looked on again. This time her antics were for me all the same, but they were of another kind. She flashed her eyes alternately at me and into those of the fellow she danced with. I was too stupid to see through this feminine device then, and it had its effect. Quite likely it would have worked just as well with me if I had seen through it. When a girl wishes to attract a fellow wishes to be attracted it's the easiest job in the world.

It wasn't long before I was going to see Lillie. She was an orphan and lived with her grandmother, an old lady deaf as a trolley car conductor whose car is jammed full of strap hangers. She was half blind too. But she must have heard by contact with substances if she didn't hear through the air, and, as for seeing, the darker it was the better chance she had of distinguishing objects. She was like other deaf and blind persons in that respect. She couldn't see or hear what she should see and hear, but had remarkable facilities for detecting what was most inconvenient for others for her to know.

About the time I made Lillie's acquaintance her grandmother was taken with her last illness. Lillie loved the old lady, and her approaching demise was an affliction to the niece. As for me, I was but twenty-one years old and had years before me in which to do courting, but so impatient was I that I graduated the old lady what little time she needed from Lillie. I feared I would be too old for matrimony before the invalid got into her grave and ceased to require attention.

Now that I look back on this period I can see that I was very unreasonable. I would go to the house and wait a whole evening for Lillie while she remained upstairs with her grandmother, hoping every minute that she could come downstairs for a brief sitting with me. One evening when I had waited a couple of hours in this way I concluded, considering that the old woman was blind and deaf and her imperfect senses must be further deadened by illness, to go upstairs to the sickroom, steal in and see if I couldn't get a word with Lillie.

I tiptoed up the staircase and to the door of the room, which fortunately I found ajar. Lillie was sitting in a chair where she could see me. She came to the door, and I told her that if she couldn't come to me I was bound to go to her. She went back into the room, turned the light very low and beckoned me to enter. There was a sofa placed where the invalid could not very well see it. I stole toward it, and Lillie and I sat down side by side with our arms around each other.

We whispered more love than today at fifty. I could talk in a year, and to be heard by each other we scarcely needed to whisper, for when I spoke my lips touched her ear, and when she spoke her lips were a full inch from mine.

"Who's there?" came from the invalid. Lillie arose, went to the bed and asked her grandmother if she wanted anything. She replied that she thought she heard whispering. Lillie told her that she must be mistaken, put her hand on the sick woman's head to soothe her and told her she had better try to get a little sleep.

Whether grandma was satisfied with this or not she said no more, and Lillie, after cuddling her awhile, came back to me. I had been wishing I could burst the remains of the drum of the old lady's ear with a ramrod but when Lillie came back I felt better. However, we didn't think it prudent to do any more whispering and refrained. I took a pencil from my pocket and some old letters and wrote what I had to say—very short sentences, in every one of which the word "love" figured conspicuously.

Men, instead of choosing, as is supposed, appropriate opportunities for proposals, are quite likely to choose the most unfitting. I was unable to even whisper without being heard by a deaf and dying old woman, and yet I must needs choose the moment to make a declaration (on paper) and ask Lillie to be my wife. She accepted me (on paper), and I sealed our engagement with a kiss which was unintentionally a smack.

"Lillie!" came from the sickbed. "What, grandma, dear?" "It's raining?" "No, grandma."

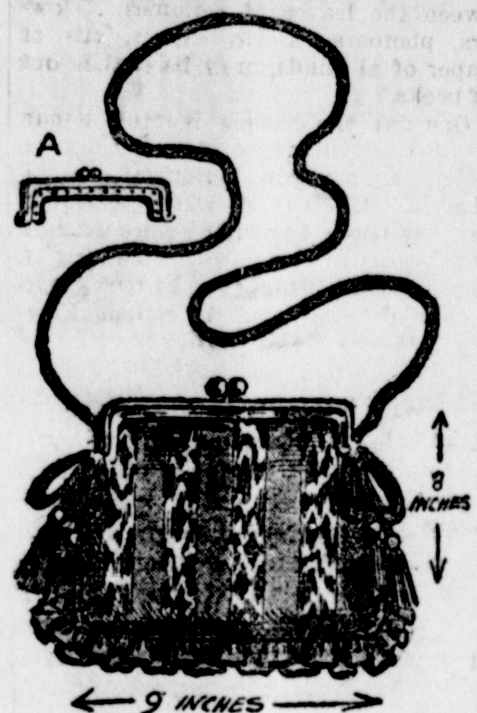

"Oh, I thought I heard something that sounded like thunder."

I was first used mechanically, and it was not until the seventeenth century that it was indulged in as a beverage. Of itself tea has little nutritive value, but increases respiratory action and has a stimulating effect on the nervous system.

BIRTHDAY OR OTHER GIFT

Little Hand-Bag Would Take On Additional Value as the Work of the Giver.

Our sketch shows a useful and practical type of hand-bag, which is simple and easy to make. It fastens with a metal clasp of the shape shown in diagram A, on the left of the illustration. Metal clasps for this purpose, with perforations in them, for sewing them on to the material, may be inexpensively purchased in many fancy work shops, and there are various designs that may be selected from, and of course they can be used in making bags of any shape.

The bag illustrated is carried out in dark green striped moire silk, and lined with soft silk, and the size indicated will be found a useful one, though it could be made on the same lines in a larger or smaller size, if preferred.

A novel feature about it is the little frill that runs all round the edge. Black silk cord of a fancy pattern is attached on either side and it is arranged in loops with the ends knotted and frayed out into tassels.

It might be made in other colors than those suggested if desired, and it is always a pretty idea with articles of this nature to select the materials of a color to match or harmonize with the costume with which they are to appear.

DAY OF THE DOUBLE SKIRT

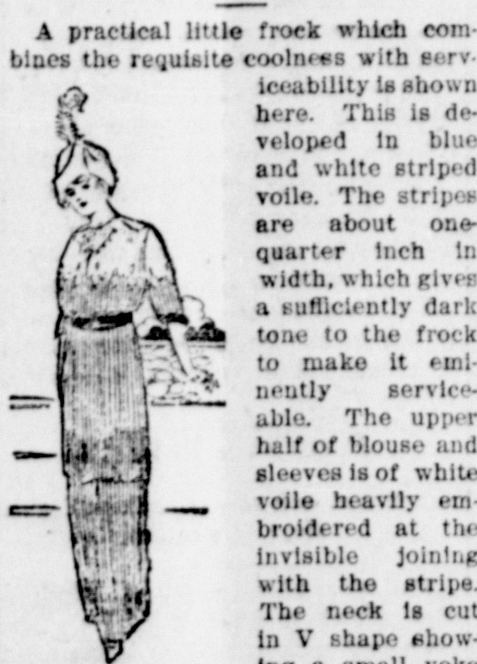

Vogue That Has Much to Recommend It Seems to Be Decidedly on the Increase.

The vogue of the double skirt seems to be increasing. The under one, generally of supple satin, is often draped and drawn in around the ankles. Over this a contrasting material is draped or pleated. In the latter case it might pass for an elongated tunic, especially as it is often of taffeta. The fancy for these double skirts finds a better medium of expression in the sheer summer materials. Through the upper one, which is transparent, one sees the colored garment of the under one and the effect is very soft and pretty.

Ribbons are used for this trimming of the foundation skirt, just as they are employed under transparent bodices. This use of ribbons under sheer waists was introduced about a year ago, but did not find its way into the fashions for the multitude until this spring. In spite of the fact that it has now reached the bargain counter stage it is still a feature of many exquisite toilets.

IN BLUE AND WHITE STRIPES

Practical Little Frock That Combines Serviceability With Many Other Good Qualities.

A practical little frock which combines the requisite coolness with serviceability is shown here. This is developed in blue and white striped voile. The stripes are about one-quarter inch in width, which gives a sufficiently dark tone to the frock to make it eminently serviceable. The upper half of blouse and sleeves is of white voile heavily embroidered at the invisible joining with the stripes. The neck is cut in V shape showing a small yoke of shadow lace, while at the back is a round collar of blue satin reaching to the shoulder. The girle and band into which the sleeve is gathered are of dark blue satin. The skirt has a plain tunic and both are finished by a six-inch hem.

Ring the Changes.

The outdoor girl will find a suit of striped flannel or woolen material a useful possession. The blouse, made with a neat yoke at the back and straight cut in front, may be worn with a dainty turnover collar and cuffs and a knotted scarf of self-colored silk along with a skirt of plain materials (which the silk scarf should in color). Another day its owner can wear her coat and skirt together with a lingerie blouse and look very complete and well turned out, or the skirt may be worn on the links with a well-made knitted coat.

Pessimistic.

The best luck any man can have is never to have been born; but that seldom happens to anyone.

MAKE SALADS OF ALL KINDS

Many Tasty and Savory Dishes Are Easily Prepared at a Very Small Expense.

I may have told of the clever little housewife who used to make a veal pot pie with "plenty of gravy and sinkers and not much meat." Take a leaf out of her book and feed your family on stews with vegetables and light, delicate dumplings and well seasoned gravy, and see if this will not suit them as well as meat in coarse abundance. Try Italian combinations of macaroni and cheese or noodles and cheese enriched with a meat gravy. Make savory rice dishes in which the meat is a negligible quantity and is yet sufficient to render the compound appetizing. Introduce salads of all kinds with French dressing or mayonnaise or one of the good boiled dressings. Turn to the generous choice of vegetables that come to us in the summer.

Fill tomatoes or peppers or cucumbers or egg plant or potatoes with a well seasoned stuffing which contains no meat or only enough to give zest to the food. Compose scallops along the same line and vegetable stews of a like kind.

Do you think I am contradicting myself when I tell you in one breath to simplify life and in the next urge you to study variety? The two pieces of counsel do not interfere with one another. The time and strength you save by reducing the work of keeping your house clean and in order is not all spent in cookery, even if you have novelties on your table. They need not require much care or labor and the change of menu, like the change you achieve by altering your room and its furnishings, will give you something different that will be an equivalent to fresh surroundings. Try it and see if I am not in the right.

HINTS FOR THE HOME SEWER

Some Useful Suggestions for Those Who Try to Do Their Own Needlework.

The soft wash silk shirt waist is made more or less plain, according to the figure that its wearer possesses. For those who are plump the plainest models are chosen. But shoulders are long and so are sleeves.

The neck of these waists is finished with a turnover collar and tie. The collar is soft and rather high at the back. Cuffs are turned back, and link buttons are worn with some of them. By the way of a little frivolity, is both of net or lace provide a finishing touch which seems superfluous with the four-in-hand tie, but is nevertheless less in evidence.

When made up for a slender figure these waists are set to a yoke in the back and fall into the shoulder seam in front. The collars are widened. Soft waists of crepe cloth are made plain with long sleeves and wide sailor collars, as well as in the regulation designs just described. Turn-back cuffs are often finished with crystal buttons. These waists are opened at the throat.

Flavored Vinegars.

Flavored vinegars are welcome additions to the spring salad. One which is useful for potato or meat salads, which are improved by the addition of a little onion flavor, is made by grating two large Spanish onions and letting them stand with two teaspoonsful of sugar for an hour or so and then adding a quart of vinegar. Bottle this and shake the bottles every day for a couple of weeks, then strain the vinegar through cheesecloth and bottle in small bottles, cork and keep in a cool dry place until it is wanted. It is better to bottle it permanently in small bottles, so that when only a little of it is wanted only a little need be uncorked.

Eggs Stuffed With Cheese.

Stuffed eggs are always welcome, but never more so than when the stuffing contains cheese. Boil the eggs hard, then remove the yolks; mash them well and add an equal quantity of grated cheese—the yellow and snapper the better. Add paprika and salt, also a very little mustard if desired. Moisten with melted butter, cream or olive oil, according to one's preference. A few drops of onion juice may also be added. Spinach makes an agreeable garnish for this dish.

To Remove a Broken Screw.

To remove a screw with one side of the head broken off, place the screw driver against one side of the head, and with a small block press firmly against the screw driver, at the same time turning the screw driver and the block. The screw will come out almost as easily as if the head was intact.

Turkish Delight.

Stir together and bring to a boil one quart granulated sugar and one cup water. Add one box gelatin, dissolved in one cup cold water, and boil ten minutes. Add juice of a lemon and orange and cook ten minutes more. Cut in squares and roll in pulverized sugar. A substitute for candy.

To Stop a Leak.

To stop a leak, mix whitening and yellow soap into a thick paste with a little water. Apply this to the place where the leakage is and it will be instantly stopped. A visit from the plumber will still be necessary, but there is no special hurry for more radical repairs.

Cooking Vegetables.

To preserve the color of green vegetables, put them on to cook in boiling water into which a pinch of salt has been dropped.

A good grain mixture for chicks is two parts cracked corn, two parts cracked wheat, two parts kafir and one part millet.

GOOD ATTRACTION

Big Vaudeville Feature Coming with Manhattan Players.

The appearance of the Manhattan Players at the Walter's Theatre all of next week, starting Monday night with the usual matinees, promises to set the pace for popular priced theatricals here this season, and if the patronage is not more than ordinarily good it cannot be attributed to the lack of effort on the part of the management, for no expense has been spared to make the Manhattan Players one of the leading attractions of the season. The Sisters Russell have been secured as a feature vaudeville act carrying over a ton of special scenery and electrical effects. They will present their spectacular dancing novelty in four beauty transformation numbers. The sisters present the Grotto dance with a wealth of scenery followed by the radium dance in the flashes of many colored lights, after which Nellie Russell appears on the rolling globe, and finishes her act with a beautiful rainbow scene when both sisters appear dancing in a night scene of a snow storm. Ladies' 15 cent tickets are being issued for Monday night—advertisement

Oct. 4—Foot Ball. Albright College. Nixon Field.

Oct. 12—16—Lutheran West Pa. Synod meeting. St. James church.

Can You Believe This?
Nature's most deadly antipathy seems to have been overcome. A rat was killed in a produce company's plant in Missouri and left four young rats, which the cat has undertaken to bring up, meantime not neglecting her duty of keeping the place clear of all adult rats that come in sight.

Another Complaint Recorded.
A woman journalist tells us that in a collection of recent poetry there are poems of dust, rage, fish and tea, and that "woman alone has failed to fan the poetic fires." She attributes it to the fact that woman has descended from her pedestal into the "hurry bury of life."

The "Alleged Gentleman."
This quaint notice was recently posted in a Cardiff club. "If the alleged gentleman who took three brushes from Mr. —'s color box imagines they will paint poultry without the assistance of the master hand he is gravely mistaken and therefore may as well return them to their rightful owner."—Pall Mall Gazette.

Dreaming to Order.

Dreams can be made to order by our sides, but not by the dreamer. You'll "Fire!" in the ear of a sound sleeper or allow a sudden draft of cold air to play on the back of his neck and he will dream to order, but he can't go to sleep with his mind made up to dream of any certain thing and then actually dream of it. In spite of this fact, books are sold in Europe which tell what one must do in order to dream the lucky number in the lottery.

Milk and Music.
It is a little known fact that the most delightful music at the present day is produced by playing on milk. The supply of ivory nowadays does not to a great extent meet the demand. Strange as it may sound, skim milk forms a substitute. It is used for making the keyboards of pianos, and in appearance this hardened substance is hardly distinguishable from ivory.

What He Would Do.
A young lady visiting her relations on a farm went out in the yard to watch her young cousin play with a chicken. Watching him for some time she asked him: "Willie, if that chicken were to lay an egg what would you do with it?" He looked surprised, then said: "Oh, I'd sell it to a museum. That chicken's a rooster."

Stage's Loss Literature's Gain.
England's censorship of the drama caused Fielding to turn from playwright to novel writing. Fielding began his literary career as a dramatist, and by his political satires brought about the establishment of the censorship in 1737, the bill being introduced by Walpole, one of Fielding's victims. With playwrighting thus barred to him, he turned his attention to the novel.

Mad Gone Too Far to Change.
Little Helen and Jack had grown up together, and when Jack finally outgrew dresses and donned his first trousers Helen insisted that she, too, be allowed to have a pair. But Jack said: "No, you don't, either, 'cause you started out to be a girl and you've got to keep it up."—Chicago Tribune.

Pellagra Due to Flint in Water.
Professors Scala and Alessandrini of the University of Rome have announced the discovery that pellagra is due to the water of the affected districts, which contains colloidal solutions of flint. The disease can be prevented by adding carbonated chalk to the water.

Poor Provider.
An old negro in Texas was asked if he was going to register. He wished to know how he would have to proceed. On being told that he had to swear to support the constitution, his eyes widened, and, drawing a long breath, he said he couldn't do it, because he couldn't support himself.

A Decade In Transit

By ALICE T. BURGE

What a receptacle for miscellaneous articles are books! When one closes a book he or she—most probably she—will take up almost anything to mark the place. Then, too, things that may be well preserved find their way between the leaves of volumes. Flowers, photographs, old letters, bits of paper of all kinds, may be shaken out of books.

One day one Joseph Werner, a man of thirty, strolled into a library to nose about among the volumes on the shelves. He was a scholarly fellow, and the books he sought were such as few persons cared for. Passing a shelf marked "History" he took down a copy of "Josephus," an eminent Jewish historian, who wrote during the first century of the Christian era. Turning over the leaves, he came upon an unfinished letter written in a woman's hand. The words "Dear Joe" caught his eye, and since his name was Joe he was interested. Glancing at the date, he saw that ten years had passed since the letter had been written.

He pictured in his mind the history of the volume from the day the letter had been placed in it. A girl was writing to a man. Some one entered the room whom she did not wish to see the letter. "Josephus" was lying open on a table. She placed the letter in the book and closed it. Either she had forgotten it or had been called away and never saw it again. The volume with the letter in it had found its way into the library, where it may not have been opened up to the present time.

While Werner was dreaming about the letter he was looking at the bibliography. It reminded him of writing that he had seen long ago. It was all very vague, but there was something inexplicably tender connected with it. He glanced down to see who was the writer, but since it was unfinished there was no signature.

His mind drifted back to a period about the time the letter was written. Perhaps it was an association with the handwriting. He was then entering upon his first, and thus far his only, love. How delightful that gradual fusing of two young hearts! Loving was as natural as breathing. Then came the serious part. He was about to go away to fight on the world's battlefield for a living—a competence, a fortune. He had spoken his love, which was returned, but the girl must have time to think about it. She was farseeing and thought it unwise to engage herself to one who had not yet even made a start. She would let him know before he went away. But he did not hear from her.

While thus reverting to the past his eyes were fixed on the letter. He read without knowing that he was reading. The writer evidently was giving to a lover an answer such as he had hoped to receive.

Leaving the volume on the shelf, he took the letter to a window, where he could get a clearer view of the handwriting. It looked more familiar than before. Gradually a belief came to him that the letter had been written to him. He remembered the date that he had left home, and that on the letter was the day before his going. As he looked and continued to look the old familiar hand came back to him. There was no mistaking it. The letter had been written—not finished—to him. But it had never been sent.

Why? Ah! There was the mystery. The letter went into Werner's pocket instead of the volume in which it had been inclosed. He knew where the writer lived, though he had not seen her since he parted with her a decade ago. He determined to go to her for an explanation.

They stood face to face. Each recognized the other. He drew the letter from his pocket and handed it to her. She looked at it in wonder, recognizing it, but evidently being dazed at holding it in her hands.

"How did you come by this?" she asked.

He related to her the strange happening by which he and the letter had drifted to the library and met there. Her memory seemed to be confused in part, though as to writing the letter it was clear.

"I wrote this," she said, "the day before you left us. Mother suspected that something was between us and had advised that we remain each free until you were able to marry. Nevertheless I resolved to answer you in the affirmative. While I was writing I heard mother coming. A book—I don't remember what book—lay open on the table near me. I put the unfinished letter in it and closed it."

"Mother asked me what I was going to do about you, and I gave her an evasive answer. She drew a promise from me to take no action without notifying her. I was but seventeen and uncertain what to do; therefore I did nothing. The letter remained in the book, where I had placed it. When we gave up housekeeping, leaving our home, we sold all our books to a dealer. How it came into the library where you found it I can't imagine unless the library bought it from the dealer."

"Your mother, who was present," he said, "I being absent, made up your mind for you then; it behooves me, who am now present, to make it up for you now. Let us consider this letter finished, signed, sealed and sent. Nothing remains but to make up for lost time."

And they did.

If chicks have no stamina, get stunted, or are diseased, it is the careless, ignorant or lazy caretaker who is to blame.

NOTES FROM MEADOWBROOK FARM

By William Pitt

Give the colt free range.

Spade up the chicken yard.

Select the poultry for the fair.

Prepare winter wheat ground early.

It is hard to fatten a stunted chicken.

Scald the milk pails out and set them in the sun.

Good digestion of the food will lead to the production of more eggs.

The cost of a cow is only the first item of expense to be considered.

Let the old hen and her brood have a sheaf of wheat and watch them keep busy.

When feed gets scarce in pastures one cannot blame cows for trying the fences.

Try and raise some product on the farm that will bring in money every day in the year.

The helper bred too early always remains stunted in growth and her milk is shortened for all time.

The Ayrshire and Guernsey types of dairy cattle are increasing in favor in the middle western states.

Some tell the sex of the guinea fowl by its wattles. Those of the male are double the size of the female.

Two items are essential in draining. Secure a good outlet and provide a regular descent for the water.

Wool that comes from the back of a sheep is good, bad or indifferent, according to the manner in which it is fed.

Animals afflicted by parasites cannot do well and these pests spread rapidly and increase fast in warm weather.

In the long run it is always a good plan to give a cow a dose of some laxative at the first symptom of udder trouble.

Experiments show that chickens with strong vitality and plenty of masculine characteristics make the largest gains.

The aphids can be controlled by spraying with the tobacco or kerosene solutions.

Alfalfa yields from two to three times as much as clover or timothy, and is more valuable hay.

The successful poultryman is busy the entire year and uses home-grown products if cheaper than those procured elsewhere.

While alfalfa pasture has been found to be very valuable for hogs, the hay as a part ration for winter is scarcely less important.

If the little ducks cannot get to grass some kind of green food must be provided. Lettuce is the very best green food that can be provided.

The gasoline engine comes in handy on the stock pump when a spell of three or four days dead calm comes and the windmill takes a vacation.

A small fat sheep always brings better prices than a large poor one; but if the larger sheep is also made fat it will command a much better price.

Dairying makes the farm attractive, other things being equal the dairy farm is neater, more sanitary and looks better to the passer-by than the other farm.

In making a house, economy of floor space, simplicity of construction and convenience in handling the fowls are the main things to be arranged for in the building of the house.

It has been estimated that if all, or nearly all, of our farmers could be induced to discard scrub fowls and use only pure-bred poultry, the increase in value of poultry would be 100 per cent.

The older a hog gets the more it costs to put a pound of meat on him. Our experiment stations have established this fact beyond all argument. Early to market is the way to capitalize this information.

A calf that has one-half of its mother's milk will put on a hundred pounds of weight a month and at three months it is eating and can be weaned. Such calves at six months will weigh nearly as much as a year old calf that was taken away at once from its mother.

Calves can well be fed corn ensilage as soon as they are old enough to be fed solid food stuffs, but they must not be overfed.

SULZER LOSES FIRST TEST VOTE

Impeachment Court Seats Four Challenged Senators.

QUESTION VALIDITY OF TRIAL

Lawyers For Defense Bitterly Assail Proceedings, Claiming "Court Is Without Jurisdiction and Charges Are Void."

Albany, N. Y., Sept. 20.—Governor Sulzer's foes won the first real skirmish in the legal battle before the high court of impeachment when the efforts of counsel for the impeached executive to have Senators Wagner, Frawley, Ramsperger and Sanner excluded from seats in the court met with defeat.

Following this, the court plunged into the arguments by counsel on the question whether the assembly had the power to impeach the governor at its extraordinary session and whether the court itself is so legally constituted as to have the right to try him. The court adjourned until Monday while the arguments were in progress.

D. Cady Herrick, chief of Sulzer's counsel, appealed for the exclusion of Frawley, Ramsperger and Sanner on the grounds that they were members of the committee that indicted Sulzer and therefore were biased in their views. The contention against Wagner was that he was in line to become the lieutenant governor of the state should Sulzer be removed, and therefore that he might render a decision of guilty to further his own interests.

Chief Judge Cullen, president of the high court, after hearing the arguments for and against the debarment of the four senators, gave it as his opinion that the senators should be permitted to sit, but said that he would put the question to a vote of the entire court. The court, by a unanimous vote, refused to consider the challenges.

In addressing the court Judge Cullen said that no court had the right to sit in judgment on any one of its members. In this, he said, a court differed greatly from a jury, the qualifications of members of which might be decided by the courts.

The vote came after a legal argument between Judges Herrick and Parker, representing the defense and the prosecution, respectively.

Judge Herrick's chief argument was that no man might sit both as prosecutor and judge. In reply, Judge Parker said the members of the court were here as representatives of the whole people, that the people established the court of impeachment in the beginning, and that none other than the people had a right to remove the representatives.

After the vote had been taken, Judge Cullen directed Clerk McCabe to read the articles of impeachment. The motion by Senator Pollock, of New York, that the reading be dispensed with, was lost, and the clerk began slowly to read the lengthy articles.

"What answer does the respondent interpose to the articles of impeachment filed by the assembly?" queried Judge Cullen when Clerk McCabe had finished his reading. Judge Herrick thereupon stated that pursuant to notice objection would be made to the validity of the impeachment, and Louis Marshall, of the governor's counsel, would argue that point.

Mr. Marshall, reading from a prepared brief, first asked that the entire proceedings be dismissed upon the ground that the "court is without jurisdiction and the charges are null and void and of no effect."

The principal attack was directed against the constitutionality of the action of the assembly in adopting the impeachment articles during an extraordinary session, when the subject matter had not been recommended by the governor.

"Governor Sulzer did not recommend the subject of his impeachment," said Mr. Marshall, "nor did he in any way suggest the consideration of any charges against himself."

When Mr. Marshall concluded Judge Cullen asked if counsel for the management contemplated taking issue with any of the facts, as distinguished from the points of law, raised by the governor's counsel. Judge Parker asked for a five minute recess while he and his colleagues considered the matter.

When the court reconvened John B. Stanchfield, attorney for the board of managers, opened the proceedings by making answer briefly to the allegations of the governor that the impeachment proceedings were irregular.

Subsequently Mr. Marshall began a long argument of the contention of Governor Sulzer's counsel that the assembly was not constitutionally convened when the impeachment articles were adopted, and that therefore the impeachment was invalid. He was still speaking when the court adjourned.

SULZER'S AIDE ARRESTED

James Garrison Held For Contempt by New York Legislature.

Albany, N. Y., Sept. 20.—Governor Sulzer's personal friend and special investigator, James C. Garrison, slept in a cell of the Albany county penitentiary.

He was remanded to that institution by the sergeant-at-arms of the state assembly for refusing to answer questions put to him by the speaker following arrest on a charge of contempt. The charge grew out of his alleged statement several weeks ago that four legislators sold their votes on the resolution impeaching Governor Sulzer.

It has been stated that Schmidt studied the manufacture of paper extensively with the supposed aim of perfecting his counterfeiting schemes.

Plans by the Sulzer faction were to obtain a writ of habeas corpus from the supreme court for the release of Garrison. Majority Leader Levy said however that such action would be impossible, as the assembly had "plenary power to punish for contempt." The appellate court so held in a similar case several years ago. If the courts should hold this view, Garrison might be kept in prison until next January, when a new legislature convenes. The alleged offense is unailable, it is said.

Garrison's arrest was almost as great a surprise to many members of the legislature as it was to him. Threats were made several weeks ago to arrest him, but nothing ever was done, and he made no attempt to evade service. He has been around Albany continuously since the impeachment proceedings began, and a few minutes before his detention was strolling about the halls of the capitol.

Then out of curiosity to see what the assembly was doing he strolled into the chamber. The doors swung inward easily for him, but when he attempted to depart he found himself blocked by the sergeant-at-arms. While Majority Leader Levy was presenting a resolution calling for the arrest of Garrison, he was held a prisoner.

When called before the speaker, Garrison was without counsel, and he refused to answer questions put to him.

SULZER AT LAST RECOGNIZES GLYNN

He Turns Requisition Over to Acting Governor.

Albany, N. Y., Sept. 20.—Governor Sulzer for the first time formally recognized the right of Lieutenant Governor Glynn to exercise the prerogatives of the chief executive of the state pending the determination of the impeachment charges.

On the advice of counsel a request for the extradition of a prisoner received by the impeached executive, was turned over to Acting Governor Glynn.

The formal recognition came in the form of a letter from Chester C. Platt, Governor Sulzer's secretary, saying:

"The judicial department of this state having decided that executive functions should be performed by you as acting governor, under the advice of counsel I transmit for your attention a letter with enclosures relating to the extradition of one Moses Gutman. I also transmit herewith certain information concerning prisoners whose terms are about to expire by commutation, pursuant to statute, which I am informed require your attention and signature."

Gutman is a fugitive from justice, under arrest in Chile.

SAYST.R.WILL RUN AS REPUBLICAN

U. S. Senator Predicts Conversion of Progressives.

HE POINTS TO EVIDENCE

Sutherland Sees Wide Defection and Asserts Colonel Roosevelt Himself Has Changed.

Salt Lake City, Utah, Sept. 20.—Colonel Theodore Roosevelt will be a candidate for the Republican nomination for president in 1916, with an excellent chance of being successful.

This is the opinion expressed by United States Senator George Sutherland, who is in Salt Lake City from Washington during the lull between the passage of the tariff bill and the debate on the currency bill.

It comes with peculiar force from Senator Sutherland because of the fact that the senator is one of the leaders of the conservative Republican forces in the senate. Senator Sutherland was opposed to the nomination of Roosevelt at the Chicago convention and vigorously opposed his election last fall. Senator Sutherland did not go as far as to say that he would support Roosevelt's nomination, but he did say that he believed Roosevelt would be nominated.

These are the indications which Senator Sutherland declares point to the successful candidacy of Colonel Roosevelt for the Republican nomination.

"First—The Progressives are returning in great numbers to the Republicans and they will virtually all be back in the Republican party in 1916. This is shown by elections in Michigan, Missouri and Maine.

"Second—The Progressives polled a larger vote in 1912 than the Republicans, and the strength of the Progressives who return to the Republican party with the friends of Roosevelt already in the party will probably be sufficient in the 1916 convention to give Roosevelt the nomination. Presidential preferential primaries in an increased number of states will be to the advantage of Roosevelt.

"Third—Roosevelt himself has already virtually deserted the Progressive party. He took no part in the Progressive campaign in the recent Maine election, and gave the Progressives there no word of encouragement. He will leave soon for South America, to be gone until after the congressional elections of 1914, and without his personal leadership the Progressive party will rapidly disintegrate."

MRS. PANKHURST'S AIDE HERE

Miss Wickham Says Attempts on Life Will Be Made "If Necessary."

New York, Sept. 20.—The immigration authorities did not molest Miss Joan Wickham when she arrived from Liverpool to prepare the way for Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, the British militant suffragette leader. Mrs. Pankhurst is expected Oct. 18.

Miss Wickham went to the Women's Suffrage headquarters to meet Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont. She told reporters that the methods used by militant suffragettes in England were absolutely necessary to get attention from officials there. "We have never attacked human life," said Miss Wickham, "but if worst comes to worst there is a strong likelihood that we will do so."

"Mrs. Pankhurst was here in 1911," she said, "and at that time she had been convicted and had been in prison. Her status then was exactly the same as it is now, and the United States government at that time made no objections to her landing here."

Mrs. Pankhurst, Miss Wickham continued, expects to remain in this country about one month. She is out of the English prison on "ticket of leave" on account of her health, and as soon as she recovers will have to serve the rest of her term.

MRS. TAFT AN AUTHORESS

Former President's Wife Writes of White House Reminiscences.

Washington, Sept. 20.—Society folks are interested in the news that Mrs. William H. Taft, wife of the former president, has written her reminiscences of four years in the White House for a magazine.

It is the unwritten law in Washington that no president's wife ever permitted herself to be interviewed or to write for publication any of her experiences while in the White House.

150 Years Term For Murder.

Estancia, N. M., Sept. 20.—Probably the longest sentence ever meted out to a murderer in a New Mexico court was imposed by Judge Edward L. Medler, in the district court here, when he accepted Justiano Moya's plea of guilty of murder in the second degree and sentenced him to the state penitentiary for not less than 150 years nor more than 160 years.

Thief Fires House.

Harrisburg, Pa., Sept. 20.—The home of C. Roy Rider, in this city, was set on fire in three places by a burglar, who ransacked the house and stole a number of small articles. Mr. and Mrs. Rider escaped from an upper story, having been aroused from sleep by dense smoke. The rear of the house was destroyed.

TEST OF COOK'S SKILL

PROPER PREPARATION OF THE SWEET POTATO AN ART.

At Least an Hour in the Oven Is Necessary Properly to Bake Potato—Some Useful Hints and Recipes.

If you would know the sweet potato in all its sweetness and goodness, you must leisurely "tour the sunny south in 'sweet tater time,' when the entire clan of sweet is in its glory and prime. While the Jerseys are a very superior class, they lack the variety found in the southern family. Color and flavor range from the sleek, smooth red-coated sweet to the thin-skinned pale yellow and less sweet variety which will be sold you as white potato in some markets of the south unless you ask for Irish potatoes. The great coarse yam that looks like an overgrown sweet, and sometimes weighs five or six pounds, is not a sweet potato at all. However, it is a good substitute for the potato; is meaty and dry, and contains a large amount of starch. It is not sweet, and is a wholesome food, though most people have to cultivate a taste for it.

To bring out the delicate flavor of the sweet potato is an art. Most cooks spoil it by cooking too quickly. At least an hour in the oven is essential to properly bake a sweet potato.

To Boil Sweet Potatoes—Wash the potatoes well without breaking the skins. Clip the roots that adhere, put them in a kettle of boiling water and let them cook until they can be easily pierced to the center with a fork, without being actually soft. Drain off the water and set the kettle back on the stove, or in the oven, with a cloth thrown over the top and let steam about five minutes, so they will be meaty. Peel them at once, and serve plain with roast pork or beef. When served with fried or broiled fish, accompany them with a drawn butter sauce, or cut them in thick slices, butter well and set the dish in the oven a few minutes.

A Fast Day Dish—This is a popular creole breakfast dish served on fast days. Take rather large, smooth potatoes, peel them and fry in round slices and fry in deep, hot fat, same as Saratoga chips, until a fine brown. Serve in a hot dish with plenty of butter poured over them.

Aunt Laura's Way—Boil the potatoes as directed, then peel them and cut in rather thick lengthwise slices. Lay them in a deep dish and pour over each layer of slices a sauce made according to these directions: Take a cup each of sugar and butter and half a cup of hot water and boil until this is thick. Some like a little grating of nutmeg; others a small piece of stick cinnamon boiled in the sirup.

Caramel Sweet Potatoes—Boil the potatoes until just done; drain, peel and cut in halves lengthwise and fry a rich brown in lard and butter mixed. Sprinkle generously, while frying, with granulated sugar.

Sweet Potato Biscuit—Take one square of dry, meaty sweet potatoes boiled and grated, half cup lard, half a cake of compressed yeast dissolved in half a cup of lukewarm water; mix with milk or water to a batter, and let rise twice. Bake the same as tea biscuit and break open and butter hot.

Frizzled Ham. Cut about a pound of fat ham into as thin slices as possible. Put a frying pan over the fire and let it become smoking hot, then put in the slices of ham and fry for two or three minutes. Then dust them with dry flour and continue to cook until the flour is brown. During this time have mixed one tablespoonful each of vinegar and dry mustard together. When the floured meat is brown, add the mustard and vinegar, together with sufficient boiling water to cover the ham. Boil gently for a minute and serve. Eggs may be cooked with the ham in place of the flour and water.

Baked Dried Peas. Take green whole peas and soak overnight. In the morning pour water off, rinse by pouring boiling water over them, then put a small piece of pork in the bean pot and put peas in it, cover with water and put in oven to bake. Keep them well watered and covered while baking. We like them very much, and for an economy meal try these with a good Johnny peas in it, cover with water and put in oven early in morning they will be ready for dinner.

Cecilia. Cook enough cold cooked beef or mutton to make a quart, add one-half cup of dry bread crumbs, one tablespoon of chopped parsley, one teaspoon of salt, one-eighth teaspoon of black pepper. Dissolve one-half teaspoon extract of beef in one-half cup of boiling water, when thoroughly dissolved add to the meat and then two well-beaten eggs. Mold into small balls, dip in egg and cracker and fry in hot fat. Serve with brown sauce.

To Clean Knives. A good knife cleaning board is made by taking a piece of board ten inches long and six inches wide. Tack on to this piece of Brussels carpet and sprinkle with fine emery. Knives rubbed on this will clean well and with little labor.

To Moisten Citron. Before slicing citron, lay it in a small strainer and place on top of the teakettle for a few minutes. The steam will soften the citron and make it easier to cut.—National Magazine.

It's more "feed" than it is "breed," but without the latter as a foundation the former becomes wasteful exercise.

NOTES from MEADOWBROOK FARM

Produce more pure seeds.

Diversified farming is best.

There is good money in ducks.

The clean separator gets the cream.

Skim milk will make quick growth in chicks.

The dairyman can handle hogs to splendid advantage.

The average cow does her best work when from five to eight years old.

Any smell to your milk after you take it into the house? Don't let it be so.

The house should be painted a color that will blend in with the surroundings.

Put the salt for the sheep in a trough. They do not like to eat it from the ground.

That like produces like is seen in the defects of the sow being transmitted to her pigs.

The natural curve of a horse's neck is better than the artificial positions made by the check rein.

It is not economical to deprive hens of foods rich in the essential elements for the production of eggs.

The combined area of the corn fields in the United States is nearly equal to the area of France or Germany.

Almost anything in the poultry line sells, but the choicest prices alone are given for the "fancy" goods.

Every 100 pounds of milk contains 87 pounds of water. No wonder a cow needs a lot of pure, fresh water.

The better the cow is cared for and the better the system of feeding the more profitable she will be in every way.

The inquiry for dairy cows was never so great. If it holds, it will pay better to raise dairy calves than beef steers.

Feed more oats and alfalfa and less corn now, as corn lacks sufficient muscle-making protein for the working horse.

There is no surer fruit than the grape; one that requires less labor and expense, and none more healthy and delicious.

For a dry mash nothing will beat two parts each of cornmeal, bran, shorts and beef scraps, and one-half part alfalfa meal.

A fall garden will prove profitable. Such crops as beans, beets, carrots, cabbage and mustard will make a nice garden for this fall.

In stallion service fees a man generally gets just about what he pays for. Soundness should be the basis in selecting a draft stallion.

A cough in hogs may be the result of sleeping in dusty quarters, in which case the trouble should be removed by giving bedding that is clean.

All the growth and thrift that can be encouraged and maintained during the first year of the colt's life insure a stronger and a better horse.

It is a good plan when getting ready to milk and before putting the pail into position to brush the cow's udder with dry hands or a clean, dry cloth.

Young plants in the garden should be protected from cucumber beetles and squash bugs by light screens. Bordeaux paris green is also good for them.

On an average, it will require one pound of grain per week for ten weeks to keep a chicken and it should weigh about two pounds when at that age.

The most common mistake that is made in locating the farm poultry house is that of placing it so close to the other farm buildings that the hens overrun the latter.

Other things being equal, it is not the largest hog that returns the most profit, but rather the hog that makes the best growth in the shortest time and upon the smallest amount of food.

The Maine Experiment station tonic for fowls: Pulverized gentian, one pound; pulverized ginger, one-quarter pound; pulverized saltpeter, one-quarter pound; iron sulphate, one-half pound. Mix thoroughly, and use two or three tablespoonfuls in ten parts of dry mash.

Where possible, a little grazing at night will help the cows keep up the milk flow at this time of year.

MADMAN DYNAMITES HOME; TWO ARE DEAD

Separated From Wife, Slays Himself and Daughter.

Bloomington, Ind., Sept. 20.—Carefully selecting the places where he believed the most damage would be done, Mack Hurst, fifty years old, a stone mason, blew up his home here with dynamite, killing himself and his seventeen-year-old daughter, Maude, and injuring two other children and stunning his wife.

The injured are: Fannie Hurst, aged thirteen, one leg broken and body lacerated; Elizabeth Hurst, six years old, severely cut and bruised; Mrs. Rena Hurst, forty-nine years old, stunned by the explosion.

Hurst had been separated from his wife for six weeks and she refused to take him back. It is believed that he then, in a fit of insanity, determined to wipe out the entire family, consisting of his wife and eight children.

The dead girl met the fate intended for her mother, and the fact that they had changed beds for the night cost the daughter her life. Hurst, after stealthily, in the darkness, planting a stick of dynamite under each of the three beds in the house, tied two sticks to his own body, crawled into the bed which he had formerly occupied with his wife, but which contained the three daughters, Maude, Fannie and Elizabeth.

Fannie spoke to her father. "Lay still," Hurst replied. "We will all die together."

Before the girl could make a move the explosion rent the house and aroused the entire city. The police and fire department rushed to the scene, and the two injured girls to the hospital and cleared away the wreckage. Four sticks of dynamite, unexploded, were found in the ruins, and the fact that only one, and that one attached to Hurst's body, had exploded, accounted for the escape of the other members of the family.

FEARMISSING GIRL SLAIN BY SCHMIDT

Stolen Death Certificates Point to Other Murders.

HUNT FOR HELEN GREEN

Girl, Who Was Known to Be Acquainted With Father Schmidt, Disappeared a Month Ago.

New York, Sept. 20.—Detectives rummaging through the effects of Hans Schmidt, confessed murderer of Anna Ammiller, were strengthened in their belief that he had planned other murders by finding complete sets of death certificates necessary to dispose of bodies, from death certificates to undertakers' permits.

Such blanks are issued by the department only to physicians in good standing whose records have been rigidly investigated. How Schmidt got them was unknown.

With the finding of these blanks the police redoubled the vigor of their search for Helen Green, who vanished a month ago after writing to Schmidt that she could not live without him. She was believed to be in Chicago. Schmidt told the detectives that she was a casual acquaintance.

Raking over the past of Ernest Muret, the dentist friend of Schmidt, implicated with Schmidt in counterfeiting operations, Inspector Faurot, head of the detective bureau, had this to say: "I have learned that Dr. Muret was in Chicago at the time of the investigation into the life of Johann Hoch, the 'Blue Beard of Chicago,' in 1905. Hoch was arrested in that year after it was charged, he had killed eighteen of his wives. There was a report that the number of wives would reach fifty."

No charge in connection with Anna Ammiller's death has been made against Muret, nor has a charge of counterfeiting yet been made against him. Muret is in the Tombs awaiting sentence for having violated the Sullivan law in having a pistol in his possession.

The whereabouts of Helen Green concerned the detectives more, perhaps, than any other feature of the case. She rented a room in an apartment at 201 West One Hundred and Ninth street during the last two weeks in January. She kept much to herself and left there about a month ago, saying that she was going to Chicago.

Detectives have established the fact that Schmidt rented an apartment near far away about the same time, and that to this apartment he sometimes brought with him his five-year-old boy. Schmidt rented this apartment under the name of VanDyke, one of his many names found to have been used in several other instances and old the janitress that the boy was his son.

No trace has been found of Helen Green from the time she left the West One Hundred and Ninth street apartment house.

Schmidt and Muret are cousins, according to information obtained from Germany by the police. Muret's real name, the German messages said, is Adolf Mueller.

Schmidt's defense will be insanity, his counsel, Alphonse G. Koebbe, said, and that Schmidt's cousin, Muret, will help to bolster up his insanity defense was evident from a statement that Muret or Mueller issued from his cell in the Tombs.

DOCTOR SCARES ROBBERS

Three Attack Him in Office, But Fleed When He Slams Door.

Lebanon, Pa., Sept. 20.—Dr. S. A. Brecht, of Hiramack, had an encounter with three masked men who confronted him at his office door.

As two of the men leveled pistols a third struck him with a blackjack on the forehead. Dr. Brecht kicked the door shut in their faces and the robbers fled.

Within an hour the state constables were on the case. Dr. Brecht had just returned from Mahan, and think the robbers believed he had considerable money.

Two Slain, Woman Shot.

San Francisco, Cal., Sept. 21.—Mr. Kate Coulson, thirty-eight years old, was shot in the neck and George Kovack, night watchman in a garage and William Acker, a chauffeur, were shot dead after the three had been riding most of the night in an automobile. A. R. Coulson, husband of the wounded woman, is being sought by the police. Mrs. Coulson is believed to be hurt fatally.

Well Explosion Kills One.

Harrisburg, Pa., Sept. 20.—When a lighted lantern they had lowered into a well they were repairing on a farm near Campbelltown exploded an accumulation of gas, William Hallman was killed, his son Paul badly burned and George Matterness injured. Hallman fell headlong into the well and was drowned in less than a foot of water.

Held For "Poisoned Pen" Letters.

Elizabeth, N. J., Sept. 20.—Mrs. Anna Pollard, wife of Nelson L. Pollard was held by Judge Owen P. Mason to await the action of the grand jury on a charge of writing "poisoned pen" letters. The charge against Mrs. Pollard was made by Mrs. Florence Jones, wife of Charles F. Jones, a local dentist.

The hens should be allowed any kind of food that is needed as an incentive to greater egg production.

GAYNOR'S BODY NOW AT BROOKLYN HOME

Will Lie in State in New York Tomorrow.

New York, Sept. 20.—The body of William J. Gaynor, late mayor of New York city, is at rest in his home, 20 Eighth avenue, Brooklyn.

A private funeral service will be held for the members of the family, after which the body will be taken to the city hall to lie in state on Sunday and for the public funeral in Trinity church on Monday.

When the Lustrania arrived at Quarantine the transfer of the mayor's body was made. The body was then taken to the foot of Atlantic avenue, Brooklyn, and thence to the Gaynor home.

All of this was done in accordance with the personal wishes of Mrs. Gaynor, under the direction of Police Lieutenant William Kennel, who has been the mayor's personal attendant for four years.

The twelve honorary pall-bearers, headed by William H. Taft, formed two lines through which the casket passed at the Gaynor home. For a distance of three blocks around the house there was stretched a cordon of police to keep away the curious.

Rufus W. Gaynor, the mayor's son, who was with the mayor when he died, looked careworn and aged. He was at the point of collapse when he reached home and had to be assisted up the steps. A physician was called to attend him and the mayor's widow, both of whom were suffering from shock.

COMFORT IN AMERICAN HOTEL

Caravansaries Surpass Those of Any Other Nation of the Earth, is Opinion of One Writer.

I remember somebody once saying to me a long time ago that the Americans had attained luxury by jumping over comfort. I think there is a certain amount of truth in this, and yet it would be foolish to call American hotels uncomfortable. They are not uncomfortable. Only there is this to be said: That to some people all hotel life is uncomfortable. They hate living in a crowd. They hate bustle, confusion, noise, the arrival and departure of people, etc. And there is certainly more hotel life in America than in other countries. And yet what a saving to the nerves, and to the temper, are so many of the devices and the arrangements in American hotels. The telephone, for instance. If you want a nice test of temper, try to get a number at the Hotel Cecil in London; or, better still, spend a happy morning in ringing up people on the telephone in Paris. In America it is either done for you at once or you know it cannot be done, and the matter is settled. Hotel life in America seems to me infinitely better organized than in any other country in the world, with the possible exception of China. Because when you order a room at a Chinese hotel, in a small Chinese town, the room is built for you while you wait; you choose the style of room, and the paper, the carpeting and all the furniture are put in during the day.—Metropolitan Magazine.

STREWN WITH WAR MUNITIONS

If what engineers and others interested in the additional reclamation work on filled fields in Colon report is true, parts of the city are fairly well salted with bombs and grapeshot. A number of these have been dug up by a suction dredge, which is now excavating near the end of the slip, to the west of the pier at Cristobal.

About half a dozen of the larger projectiles and a peck of smaller balls were found in the stone box of the dredge recently, and it is estimated that a greater quantity went through the discharge pipe into the reclamation fill east of East street, Colon. The projectiles were incrustated with a kind of natural concrete, made up of coral deposits, sand and shells, to the thickness of two inches. Below this was a coating of rust; beneath the steel was clean and well preserved.

The mark, "O. R. D. D. 1862," was found in the interior of some of the largest projectiles. One, when it was opened, contained black powder in a state of fair preservation. From the Panama (Peru) West Coast Leader.
